The annual drive of the Wilmington Community Fund opens this Saturday, and will continue for two weeks.

Mrs. Clifford Braman of Fairmeadow Road, President of the Wilmington Community Fund, has announced that the goal this year will be $10,000.

Mrs. Wavie Drew and her workers will conduct the Door to Door canvas, in which residents of the town are asked to contribute to the fund, and Stanley Webber and his workers are to be in charge of the Industrial Canvas.

The Wilmington Community Fund supports many of the organizations in Wilmington, and has a charitable organization which is always present at any local disaster, such as a house fire, to take care of distressed persons immediately, in addition to other charities.

Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Forty Acres, the Wilmington Dental Clinic, and other such organizations are supported in part or wholly by the Community Fund.

The drive is scheduled to end on the first Saturday in October.

DENTAL CLINIC ADOPTS NEW FLUORIDE TREATMENT

A new Sodium Fluoride treatment, for the prevention of caries in the teeth of Wilmington school children, has been adopted by the Wilmington Dental Clinic, effective this week.

The Dental Clinic, which is a semi-charitable organization supported by the Wilmington Community Fund is the first such organization in this area to adopt the use of the new Sodium Fluoride treatment, which has been endorsed by the Massachusetts State Department of Health. The clinic adopted the new treatment only after a serious study on its own part.

The new fluoride treatment does in one application the work that was formerly done in four, and thus saves the time of the children and parents. It is much more effective.

The cost of the treatment is $3 which is an increase of the individual costs of last year, (75¢), but because there is only one application, instead of four, the overall cost remains the same. The parents save, in addition to time, the cost of the three other transportation trips, which generally in Wilmington meant the use of a taxi.

Most of the Directors of the Wilmington Dental Clinic are in the Medical and Dental professions in Wilmington.

LEGION INSTALLATION SATURDAY

Ralph Zwicker is to be installed as Commander of Post 136, American Legion, and Mrs. Pauline Okolo is to be installed as President of the Legion Auxiliary in ceremonies to be held in the Wildwood School at 8 pm Saturday.

At the conclusion of the joint installation of both Legion and Auxiliary officers there is to be entertainment and dancing at the Legion Hall. All veterans and invited to attend.

THE NEW PEDWAY TO THE WILDWOOD SCHOOL. The Selectmen want the lower end barred to autos. This picture, taken from within the school on opening day, illustrates how the entire pedway is visible at all times to the teachers in the school.

DR. E. STANLEY JONES SPEAKS HERE SUNDAY

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, world famous missionary, evangelist and writer is to address a Lynn District Convocation of the Methodist Churches in the Wilmington Methodist Church next Sunday, at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Jones, a native of Baltimore and a graduate of Asbury College Wilmore, Ky., was asked by the Methodist Board of Missions to get to India in 1907, when he was 23 years old.

Over half a century later he was honored as a 'missionary extraordinary'. One bishop called him 'the greatest Christian missionary since St. Paul'. In his service in India he inaugurated the Round Table conference, where Christians and non-Christians sat down together as equals to study the core of religious experiences. His public meetings were thronged.

He spent two months in Tagore's Ashram, the House of Peace, as a teacher. There he was allowed to speak about Christ to the men and women of all faiths, gathered to examine each other's beliefs. His influence spread throughout India, Burma, and the Far East.

The Methodist Board of Missions offered him the wide-ranging role of 'Evangelist at large to India' and wherever else he might feel led to go. Since 1919 the Christian missions that developed from his early work in Lucknow and Sitapur have taken Dr. Jones to six continents and to almost every country on the globe. His present program calls for a trip to India every year and around the world every other year.

BESSIE FREE IN $10,000 BAIL

Bessie Jerrett, of 14 Marcus Road was freed in $10,000 bail, last Thursday morning, by Justice Alfred Sartorelli, of the Woburn District Court.

The 32 year old No. Wilmington mother, accused of having stabbed her husband and causing his death, is resting at the home of relatives in a near by community, with her children, awaiting the next move by her attorney, Dwight L. Allison, and the court, in the first capital case involving a Wilmington resident in 30 years.

The indications are that her lawyer will ask for a full-fledged 'probable cause' hearing in the Woburn District Court on Sept. 25th.

The Wilmington Police had asked for a continuation until that date in order to complete their investigation. Sgt. George Shepard appeared in the court for the Wilmington police.

Charles Bryant, a cousin of Mr

Jerrett, testified in court last Thursday that he felt that the crime had been provoked by Jessie's husband, and other members of the victim's family were in court, and wept as the testimony was given.

Attorney Allison told the court that Mrs. Jerrett had been threatened, prior to the alleged crime, in several ways, by an iron, by the threat of being thrown out of a window, by the threat of the use of a shotgun, and by the artificial arm and steel hooks worn by the victim.

Mrs. Jerrett, he said, was a loyal wife of 14 years, and the mother of six children, the oldest 12 and the

RENE GOT WHIP SAWED

Twelve or thirteen years ago Rene LaRivee, then just a citizen of Wilmington, joined in an effort with a few other persons to see if something could be done about Wilmington's swamps.

The group made an exploration of the Ipswich (one of them being a Civil Engineer) and came up with a figure of $25,000 as the cost of dredging the river up to Jenks Bridge on Woburn Street.

The idea was to lower the water table a little there, and then to encourage the local land owners on Wilmington's three brooks to do their part in clearing the brooks, after the water had somewhere to go.

But the Selectmen of that day and age turned the idea around, and instead of having the town spend the money they thought they could persuade the state to.

Rep. Frank Tanner, when asked by the Selectmen, did his part, and persuaded the Legislature to appropriate $25,000 for a survey.

The survey was made, and plans drawn to show the places where dredging and/or clearing would do the best. The total bill came to $625,000, for it included work in North Reading, and further. It was a fine plan, but far beyond the scope of the ideas of Rene and friends, who had been thinking of getting rid of the strictly local problems.

Naturally the towns downstream on the Ipswich perked up their ears, when they heard of this. Reading has a water supply beside the river, which may or may not depend on the water level in the river. Peabody, from time to time pumps water from the river in mid-summer, as does some of the other communities nearby.

They objected (with good reason) and the project of having the river dredged with state funds fell flat on its face, and still lies in that prone position.

Eight or nine years later the then Selectmen and Town Manager came up with an idea of dredging the Ipswich under the provisions of Chapter 91, again using state funds, supplemented with local funds. It was a good idea, North Reading had accomplished some work by it, but again the downstream towns objected, and the project is to all import dead as a doornail, with some thousands of dollars of Wilmington funds tied up in it.

And there Wilmington has stood, for several years, with each year adding a little more brush and a few more logs to the brooks and streams.

SUSIE'S SONNETS

by Sylvia Neilson

AGONIZING REAPPRAISAL

Ain't it time that we dispose
Of the Diem so-and-so's?

Monday night Rene went to the Selectmen's meeting with the idea of discussing a possible project of just cleaning up a few points in some of the brooks. He wasn't interested in the $625,000 project - or the Chapter 91 project. He just wanted to use a little of the information shown on that $25,000 plan to get rid of a few of the blocks in the local streams.

But Rene didn't get a chance.

Let it be said in the first place that Rene is not a fast thinker when it comes to a round table debate. He is the solitary type of thinker who perhaps should write his thoughts down and present them that way. In a debate he just doesn't have what it takes.

Rene had only had a chance to say a few words when Nicky De Felice grabbed the reins. Nicky talked knowingly of the $625,000 project and how it was impossible, and told how he and John Brooks had spent a day looking at brooks up in the Silver Lake area.

John Brooks chimed in to talk about the water shed program, and how Tewksbury was making a lake for its water department.

Rene by this time was pretty confused, and at least tentatively agreed that a lake in the Hundred Acre Meadow (below Woburn Street) might be a good idea.

Nicky also brought out that one has to get permission from private landowners to cross their land, and a few more points, all of which were true, but not in the kind of reasoning which Rene had wanted to present.

The point is that Rene was thoroughly whip-sawed, and never got his chance to talk about co-operation of the land owners in clearing out the brooks and reducing some of the local flood causes entirely within the town, and which are no business of either Peabody or Reading.

Which is to be regretted.

IN WHICH THE POLICEWOMEN HELP

As each school year starts the public is told by the press and radio of the dangers of motorists passing school busses which are loading or unloading children.

In Massachusetts a definite violation of the law is involved. Only on a divided highway, with a car going in the opposite direction, may a motorist continue going.

In towns near Wilmington there is, every year, a long list of arrests of motorists who have violated the law by passing school buses which are loading or unloading children. Many dollars have been paid, in fines, in the courts.

In Wilmington last year there were only two such arrests. This does not mean that there was a lack of vigilance on the part of the local police, but quite the contrary.

The ladies of the Wilmington Police Traffic Department are responsible. Practically every school bus stop is supervised, by uniformed Policewomen.

And it pays off - for the children, and for the motorists who otherwise might unthinkingly have violated the law.

TOWN NOTES

Not Yet

The first frost, a very gentle one, came to Wilmington a week ago yesterday morning. It touched only a few spots in this town, and many of our backyard gardeners escaped entirely from the icy fingers.

But Saturday morning was a different thing, for the frost of Saturday was more widespread, and only those who took precautions escaped entirely.

We are happy to report that the flowers on the Common are still doing well, and should be with us for a week or so at least.

The Wilmington Women's Club is sponsoring those flowers, to the tune of about $20 a year, which is just one way that the gracious ladies make themselves known.

Together Before

The announcement yesterday of the new Principal Assessor brings together (when Grimes arrives) two men who have served in the same municipality on a different occasion.

Mr Grimes was an assessor in Fairfield, Connecticut from 1954 to 1957, and Harold S Shea, Superintendent of Schools of Wilmington was Superintendent of Schools of Fairfield from 1947 until he came to Wilmington a couple of years ago.

We asked Harold yesterday afternoon if he remembered Mr Grimes, and if it might possibly be a re-union of old friends.

Harold was a little hazy on the subject. He thought he remembered Grimes, but he wasn't certain. He will have to wait until about the second week in October, when the new Assessor is due to take over the Wilmington job.

George just kept Working

George Pratt of Adams Street is one of the quiet type of fellows who sometimes isn't hardly known by the neighbors. He does his work, keeps his mouth shut, and neither bothers anyone else nor wants to be bothered.

George had a chance last week to gain a little fame, or notoriety, a chance that might have gone on to such things as appearing on a radio or TV show, telling about experience, or letting some contestant guess about it.

Such things as appearing on TV because of an incident in a person's life has happened to Wilmington people before, and possibly may happen again, but George Pratt isn't going to be that individual.

For George was buried under 300 tons of soot, a little over a week ago, and lived to tell the tale.

He was helping to raze a 300 foot chimney in Somerville, when the accident happened, and he and a companion were buried in soot that cascaded out of the chimney.

A number of newspapers called George, the next day, and wanted to get his picture. They figured that he was home recuperating from his adventure.

But George wasn't home. He just went back to the job, with no comment.

CREDIT WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

President Kennedy has signed the bill for the establishment of a $50,000,000 space laboratory, and at this moment the Federal government is spending the sum of $3,900,000 in a study to determine where the laboratory is to be located. A report must be made to the Congress in a month.

The state, and the community, in which this laboratory is to be located will enjoy benefits that will extend over many years. The laboratory is to be one of the major factors in the national economics for many years to come.

Here in Massachusetts many groups, private individuals, and cities are vying for the final choice, and the chances are that a Massachusetts site will be named.

One of the communities that is working in this task is that of our neighboring city of Woburn. Officials of the city, and private citizens, working together, have put in untold thousands of hours and manifold efforts to have their community named as the site.

The people of Woburn are to be congratulated on this effort. Win, lose or draw, they have learned what it is to work together. Everyone wishes them the best of luck.

LETTERS

Dear Mr. Neilson:

This letter is in reference to your article in the August 15 issue of the Town Crier concerning the School Committee's inability to know just what to do about the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision banning Bible reading and the Lord's Prayer in public schools. There certainly is something that can be done about it!

The Supreme Court decision is illegal, as any honest, competent lawyer will tell you, because it violates the U.S. Constitution in at least two places; Specifically the First Amendment, and Article III, Section 2, which certainly seems to say that the high Court was never even given jurisdiction in the first place to decide such cases as arise as arise between a State and citizens of the same State. Further, a decision of any court is never the 'law of the land,' for only Congress can make laws.

We certainly don't think so, but let's assume for the moment the decision is valid. Was it then properly applied in Massachusetts? Definitely Not! In the first place the Court passed on practices in ONLY Maryland and Pennsylvania, and not on those in Massachusetts, unless and until someone from this state appeals a case to the Supreme Court. In the second place, the State Legislature is the only place existing state law can be changed, not in the office of the Commissioner of Education, or the Governor, or the Attorney General, or any local school board, or superintendent, or principal, or teacher. On the contrary, we all have a moral and legal obligation to obey the existing Massachusetts General Law Chapter 71, Section 31 page 861, requiring that a portion of the Bible be read at the beginning of each school day.

Our country, our freedoms, our religious heritage are under constant attack by men committed to an atheistic, materialistic, Marxist philosophy. We must use our freedom, to defend our freedom, before it is too late. The only thing necessary for evil to triumph is that good men do nothing. We suggest that every citizen of Wilmington insist that the law be obeyed in Wilmington schools, and we further suggest that they write to their representatives in the legislature, to the School Committee, to the Commissioner of Education, to the Attorney General, and to their fellow citizens protesting this illegal, immoral, unwise action on the part of a U. S. Supreme Court which has a horrible pro-Communist voting record. More on that next week.

Sincerely
William E. Dunham

Both or Nothing

Peering up from beneath his stethoscope Doc MacDougal has been heard to mutter to himself in the past few days.

Doc has a nice waiting room for his patients, in his Middlesex Avenue home.

He used to have sorts of gewgaws in the waiting room, to make it look nice, and to help the patients take their minds off their worries - such things as nice $150 rose colored antique bottles.

But the nice things kept on disappearing -- not that any patient of the Doc would steal anything -- heavens forbid -- but perhaps they thought they needed those bottles more than Doc did.

So Doc took out the bottles, and substituted some paintings -- some thing that retails at about $4.50 each.

Two of the paintings were in a set, and went very nicely together.

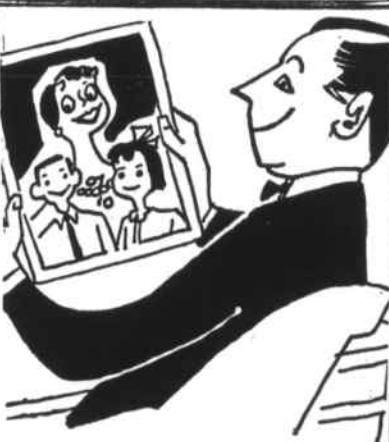

So somebody came to the conclusion that he needed one of them more than did Doctor MacDougal, and walked off with it.

That's why Doc is muttering under his stethoscope.

--'or if only he would return it' --'and not leave me with one picture out of a pair!'

Doc hasn't said anything about it, but we suspect that if the petty thief were to take the other picture, and if by chance he were to be caught doing it Doc would give him a reward or something.

He just can't stand being untidy.

NEW ASSESSOR STARTS WORK IN OCTOBER

Frederick E. Grimes, of Salem New Hampshire, appointed Principal Assessor of Wilmington yesterday by Town Manager Gerald Bouchard, is expected to take over his new duties about the second week in October.

Grimes was appointed at a salary of $7280 a year, the same as is paid to eight other department heads in Wilmington.

40 years old, married, with 3 children, he has been an Assessor ever since he graduated from Harvard University in 1947, working for the State of Maine, as an assessor in Fairfield Connecticut, in Bar Harbor Maine, and, for the past three years in Salem New Hampshire.

Grimes in 1950 completed the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers Course I at Harvard Business School, and in 1961 he was granted a designation of Certified Assessment Evaluator (CAE) by the Executive Board of the International Association of Assessing Officers.

According to TM Jerry Bouchard he has been told that only three individuals in Massachusetts have this certification.

Grimes is a member of the International Association of Assessing Officers, the Association of New Hampshire Assessors, and of the Connecticut Association of Assessing Officers.

CURFEW AND POLICE DOGS

Selectman John Brooks, Monday night, persuaded the other members of the board to vote for a strict observance of the Curfew Law in Wilmington, and to also request the Town Manager to see if it would be well for the Wilmington Police Department to have police dogs.

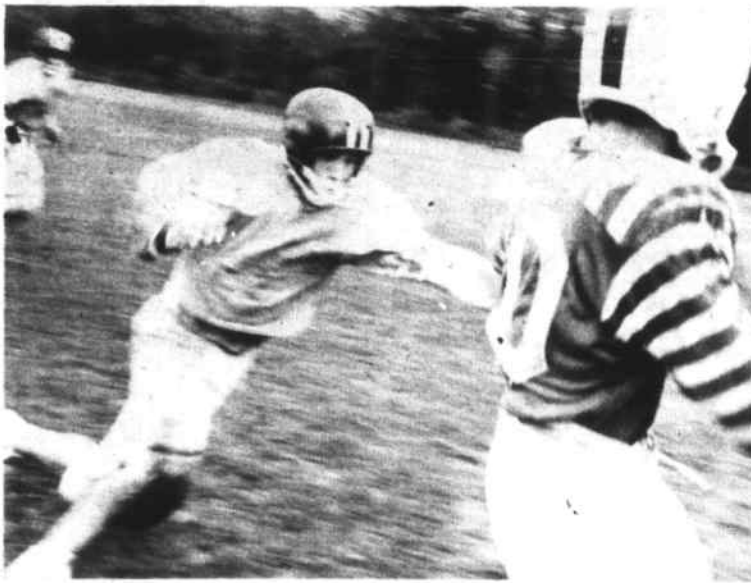

These were the second and third proposals of Brooks which have been adopted in recent weeks by the Board of Selectmen. Last week Brooks proposed that the Board institute a 'Student Government' Day in Wilmington, a move that has been endorsed by the Superintendent of Schools.

Observing that there had been two robberies in suburban Boston towns over the past weekend, one of which resulted in the death of a police officer, and in the other a police dog had been used to round up the suspect, Brooks moved that the Town of Wilmington should have police dogs, for the better protection of the Patrolmen. His motion was unanimously adopted.

Brooks also moved to have a stricter enforcement of the Curfew Law, which prohibits children under 16 years of age from being on the streets after 9 pm without good cause. He spoke movingly of the youngsters he had seen in autos, and said that there had been 'drag racing' on Middlesex Avenue, right near his home.

The Curfew motion was also unanimously adopted.

now realizes what happened.

The condition of the girl, who is to celebrate her 23rd birthday next Saturday, was very critical for a long time, but she is now on the road to recovery. Doctors who opened the bandages today to inspect the burned areas were very happy to note signs of healing.

Gordon Reardon is certain that the visit of himself and his wife, and the presence of Mrs. Reardon by the bedside of the girl is having much to do in inspiring her to live.

Mrs. Wescott, her husband, a cousin, Joseph R. Russell, 23, of 164 Main Street, Wilmington, and Mrs. Russell, 23, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rogers of Fenway St. Wilmington, had left last Friday, from the Lawrence Airport, on what was intended to be a weekend trip.

Judith Russell was one of four daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, the others being Mrs. Rose Marie Draper of Woburn, Mrs. Dorothy Boutwell of Tewksbury, and Miss Beverly Rogers of Wilmington. A graduate of Wilmington High School, she had married her husband last February, in a ceremony in St. Thomas Church.

youngest 2. Wilmington Police Women were caring for the children, he told the court.

The motion for bail, by Atty. Allison was opposed by Assistant District Attorney Francis K. Monarski of Middlesex County. He pleaded that the motion be denied, and said that the court would have full responsibility if anything were to happen.

Attorney Monarski said that possible emotional and mental conditions were to be taken into consideration, and that he felt that a motion to admit bail was premature at this time.

After a short recess Justice Sartorelli announced that he was going to admit Mrs. Jerrett to bail due to the circumstances involved.

The Justice cited a similar case in the Superior Court, in the Commonwealth vs. Baker, and stated that although his decision was precedent shattering he was not afraid of precedence.

In ordering the $10,000 bail Judge Sartorelli made three conditions: 1. That the defendant (Mrs. Jerrett) be in the company of a person approved by the Court at all times until the disposition is made by the court.

2. That the probation department of the court be notified and kept informed of the activities of the defendant, and be admitted to her home at all times, day or night, when they request it.

3. That if the defendant is returned to the Court for a violation of these conditions a new hearing will be held.

In answer to a statement about Woburn District Court being an 'inferior' court, Judge Sartorelli stated that he felt that the Common Law, referring to 'inferior' courts was pointing to Justices of the Peace, etc. He stated that he was ruling that the Woburn District Court was not an inferior court and did have complete jurisdiction over the matter until the 'Probable Cause' hearing had been held on Sept. 25th.

The flight was in a plane of Joseph Russell, who received his pilots license about a month ago. He had purchased the plane last May, and was flying to Washington to gain 'cross country' experience. Mr. and Mrs. Wescott went along for the ride - in the company of their closest friends.

Mr. Wescott, 26 years old, of Wakefield, was employed by the Transltron Electronics Corp. in Melrose, and was attending a radio and television repair school in Boston two nights a week.

Mr. Russell was an electrician, and he and his wife had only recently moved into their little home off Main Street. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wescott of Kezar Falls, Maine.

Marjorie Wescott and her husband had lived about a year at 19 Lake Street, in Wakefield. She worked until recently as a business machine operator at the American Mutual Insurance Co. in Wakefield.

The plane in which the four were riding crashed into a field that was lighted by headlights of autos summoned by nearby residents who heard the plane circling, before the crash.

A four passenger Cessna, it burst into flames when it crashed.

Mrs Cannon also pointed out that the Wilmington League holds a general meeting the second Monday of every month at the Legion Hall for all members and the general public. Every third Monday and Thursday are devoted to meetings at the homes of the above mentioned persons, and members have choice of attending either night. These meetings are designed to have a smaller group of people discuss the topic of the general meeting.

Mrs Louis Howe, speaking for the Membership Committee, expressed her pleasure at seeing prospective members and asked anyone interested in the League to feel free to call her.

BIBLE READING DISCUSSION IN SCHOOL COMMITTEE

William E Dunham of Brentwood Avenue, appearing before the Wilmington School Committee, last night, was told that the School Committee will ask the legal opinion of the Town Counsel relative to the decision of the US Supreme Court on Bible Reading, in the country, and more specifically in Massachusetts.

Mr Dunham argued before the School Committee that the Massachusetts law calls for the reading of the Bible in the Public Schools, and that the opinion of Attorney General Brooke has no legal force since it is not the province of the Attorney General to render such an opinion.

The Judiciary Department of the Commonwealth, Mr Dunham said, should have been the one to render such an opinion.

The Commissioner of Education Mr Dunham said, was in essence inciting disobedience to the laws of the Commonwealth by telling the School Committees and Superintendents to do away with Bible reading in the public schools.

Mr Dunham cited Dean Clarence Manion, former Dean of the Law School of Notre Dame as saying that the June 17 decision of the Supreme Court is binding only on the litigants, and therefore has no validity in states other than Pennsylvania and Maryland.

He also cited the fact that the actual legality of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution is still very much open to question according to many eminent legal authorities. There has been whole textbooks written on this, and Dunham told the School Committee that a number of Southern States had been in effect forced to ratify the 14th amendment, and that two northern states later rescinded their original ratification of the 14th amendment.

The First, Ninth and Tenth amendments were conspicuous by their absence in the 20 page opinion of the Attorney General, and his relying primarily on the 14th Amendment left his opinion open to doubt, Dunham said.

Mr Dunham asked the School Committee to re-institute the reading of the Bible in the Public Schools.

In the discussion which followed School Committeeman George Robertie said that it would be too an expensive proposition for the people of Massachusetts to test the ruling, as it applied to other states and that, in his opinion, the conclusion was already foregone.

Chairman Arthur V Lynch told Dunham that the province of legal decisions was up to the Town Counsel, and that he for one would be very happy to submit the arguments to that gentleman.

John Hartnett in his opinion thought that there was no appeal from a Supreme Court decision.

The discussion ended with the board promising Dunham to ask the Town Counsel for his opinion, and accepting from Mr Dunham some of the literature in which he had been citing the opinions of Dean Manion and others in the Bible reading and other cases.

WATER COMMISSIONERS
SUED IN DISPUTE

A long standing dispute between the Board of Water Commissioners and a building developer has resulted in a suit at law alleging a tort for interference.

A P Rounds, developer of Hathaway Acres and the Wilmington Water Commissioners have not been able to agree on the replacement of a small water main on Carson Avenue, as part of the extension of water mains into the new section of the Hathaway Acres development.

The Commissioners lost a case in court, on the subject, and have appealed.

In the past week they have been served with papers asking for $15,000 personal damages, alleging that their holding up on water for the new development has become a tort.

CALL FOR BIDS
FOR NEW POST OFFICE

The US Postoffice Department, Regional Real Estate Officer in Boston called for competitive bids on Sept 7th for a new postoffice building near Wilmington Square.

The site, near the Fire Department building on Church Street, is about 350 feet from the present post office.

The building is to be erected under the Post Office Department Lease Construction Program.

The successful bidder will purchase the property, construct the building according to Post Office specifications, and lease it to the Post Office Department for 10 years. The Post Office investment will be limited substantially to postal equipment.

P X O'Connor, Regional Real Estate Officer, Room 1420, Post Office & Courthouse, Boston is in charge of bidding forms, building specifications, lease provisions, and other information.

Bids must be submitted by October 4, 1963.

WEBBER TO HAVE 'HEARING' ON CHARGES

Stanley Webber, former Principal Assessor of Wilmington, will have a 'hearing' on the charges made by the Town Manager, at the time he was fired, several months ago.

The Board of Selectmen voted 4 to 1, Monday night, to allow Mr Webber to make statements before them in their first meeting in October.

The 'No' vote was cast by Selectman De Felice, who, a few moments before the vote had told Mrs Drew to 'Shut up' and had received a sharp reply in return.

Mr Webber appeared before the Selectmen Monday night, and made his request. He was given to understand that in allowing him to appear he was getting the same privilege as any other citizen would expect, and no more.

Webber told the Selectmen that he wanted to discuss some of the statements made by the TM in his letter of dismissal, and those statements were hurting him and he felt he was entitled to a chance to refute them.

Webber also attempted to make a statement concerning some out-of-town real estate firms, but was not allowed to by the board. The firms were not identified.

WATER EXPLORATION
DISCUSSED

At the invitation of the Board of Water Commissioners TM Jerry Bouchard attended their meeting last Thursday to discuss the subject of additional water supplies for the Town of Wilmington.

Bouchard indicated several areas in which he believed the town might search for water in North Wilmington, on both sides of Route 93, and also some areas further south, also along 93.

The Main Street Water Main to Eames Street, Bouchard was told, will probably be in service in the next week.

The consultant whom Bouchard was to meet did not arrive until after the TM's departure. He told the Water Commissioners that two test wells, dug in North Wilmington in old gravel pits, have tested excellently for quantity, and it now remains to see how the quality will shape, in a water analysis.

(sometimes less), the Bedouin tribesmen often live for months on nothing but dates and camel milk. And, they may eat meat only once or twice a year.

With the modern, industrialized and scientific world at his door step, (and free education to any level sponsored by the government) the Saudi is moving towards heights that 20 years ago were unthinkable.

I feel that this is a great opportunity, to watch these people move out of the past, and into the present. It is an experience that I will not forget.

Lawrence M Pellerin

PS Good luck to the new Wilmington football team; I hope our home town Navy recruiter in Lowell doesn't have as much luck as the Marine recruiter; and Congratulations to the American Legion softball team on it's (almost unbelievable) undefeated season.

Dear Mr. Neilson:

I would like to commend our School Committee on their majority vote of approval for silent meditation in our Schools.

It is hard to believe that any child would enter school without some knowledge of God, their Creator. This knowledge, acquired in the Home - taught by the most responsible 'religious leaders, their Parents, - is sufficient to warrant a moment of meditation in the classroom.'

Our School Committee members Messrs. Connolly and Keane should not underestimate our youngsters understanding of prayer; whether silent or oral. Pity the child who does not know of God before Grade nine.

Let us hope that 'our nation under God' will not suffer the fate of other countries that excluded God and accepted the doctrine of self-indulgence and materialism.

Sincerely,
Kathleen A Barry

The Addison House

The Addison House, on Burlington Avenue, which was burned by the Fire Department a week ago on request of the present owners, the Diamond Salt Company, so completely disappeared that, by next morning there was just a nicely seeded plot of ground.

The house dated back about 110 years, more or less. It was built by a man who we think was named Frank Crockett, - at least the last name was Crockett, and he was the man who was in charge of all the right of way for the Boston & Lowell Railroad, back before the Civil War. He was called 'The Master Mechanic of the Boston & Lowell'.

Crockett was the owner of quite a bit of land in Wilmington, and he eventually sold the house to Julia H A Crockett, who, while some kind of relative, was not his daughter, for Julia turned the house over to other members of the family.

The next owner was George MA M Crockett, now Mrs Stanley Webber, a teacher in the Wilmington High School. Mrs Webber, or we should say, Miss Crockett, for it was some years ago, turned the house over to her father, George S Crockett, who was the last of the Crockett family to own it.

George sold it to the Dalalmo family, who owned it for years and finally sold it to the Unit Packet Company, predecessor of Diamond Salt.

Mrs Dalalmo, the lady who last lived there, is still a resident of Wilmington, and not only is a well known person, but one with many friends.

Back about the days of the Spanish American War the house was known as 'The Addison House, the home of Joseph Addison, his wife and his daughter. They rented the house for years, and most every one in Wilmington considered him to be the owner.

WILMINGTON REPUBLICAN FINANCE COMMITTEE NEWS

One of the biggest and most important political events of the year - the appearance of Senator Barry Goldwater as the principal speaker at the coming fund raising dinner of the Massachusetts Republican Finance Committee takes place in Boston on Wednesday, October 16. As this is Senator Goldwater's only major policy speech presently scheduled for New England, the attention of the entire region will be focused upon Commonwealth Armory that night.

Many important questions will be answered, and perhaps many others will be raised, not only for Republicans but for Independents and for everyone concerned with political developments.

Tickets for the $100 a plate are on sale and may be obtained from Ruth M Kitchener, finance chairman of Wilmington who reports that her quota of tickets will be fully subscribed shortly.

Mrs Kitchener reports that the coming dinner has been sparked with additional interest by the other leading national Republican leaders who have also been invited, as head table guests. These will be announced as they accept the invitation. Among the invited are: Senator Saltonstall, former presidents Eisenhower and Hoover General MacArthur, and others.

There is evidence of new vitality all through the Republican Party in Massachusetts, and it is expected that the challenge of the Finance Committee will be met by all local groups. A system of bonus tickets to be allocated on a sliding scale basis to those local committees who exceed their quotas should provide additional excitement.

Proceeds from the dinner will be used to fulfill the Massachusetts State Committee's obligation to the National Committee, to retire it's previous commitments, and to provide for the increased operating expenses of the expanded party organization being put together by State Committee Chairman Fred-eric C Dumaine, Jr.

YOUR

NORTH WILMINGTON
CENTER FRIENDS

The tale has been told for perhaps generations of what happens in a strictly masculine barber shop (or perhaps of what used to happen), with men gathering in foursomes to sing in 'Barber Shop Quartets' while others talk over the races of yesterday and yesterday, and the pugilists of the same time, with occasional references, more or less furtive, into a magazine known as the Police Gazette.

That's not what happens in the Beauty Lounge, of the North Wilmington Center, but the girls who are the patrons of Ann Veloza have an even better time.

Something is always bouncing around in the conversation. It can be politics. It can be the Board of Selectmen. It can be the latest dance (and on more than one occasion there has been a Congaline to illustrate), or it can be, perhaps, the League of Women Voters.

Ann decided about five years ago that she was going to have her own Beauty Shop. She was well trained and had been working in beauty shops in Cambridge and elsewhere, but she wanted one near home.

In fact, she started off by wanting one in her home, and she went to the Board of Appeals to see if it was possible.

It wasn't.

So when the North Wilmington

Shopping Center started Ann was elated. Here was a chance, near to home.

Of course there were a few troubles, such as the rent, and a wavy floor in the building into which she moved, but Ann has a husband who is a Good Joe, and while perhaps he didn't take care of the rent, he did stay up until the wee hours of the morning, sanding and waxing that floor.

It was three years ago that Ann opened up for business. She was happy as a little Meadow Lark!

Business wasn't too good at first, in fact it was almost discouraging, but as the ladies learned that there is more to hairdressing than just sitting and waiting, and that there was plenty of free discussion in the Beauty Lounge, they sometimes came down to join in the fun, and ended up getting a permanent!

Now Ann has her Beauty Lounge in the latest addition to the North Wilmington Center, with a nice tiled floor, and all new shiny fixtures.

There are plenty of places for the ladies to sit while they dry their hair, and listen in on the conversation.

Ann is happy, but what counts more is that her customers are too. And isn't that a good reason for any operator of a Beauty Shop to be happy?
